Governor's Foreword

I commend the New York State Council on the Arts, which has moved ahead during the country's persistent recession to meet the future with boldness and imagination. This dedication has characterized the agency throughout the period that Kitty Carlisle Hart has been its chairman.

I thank Mrs. Hart, the Council members and the Council staff for a job well done. I am committed to continuing to work to ensure the future of the arts in New York State.

Mario M. Cuomo

STATEMENT OF THE CHAIRMAN AND THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

In the fiscal year 1991-92, we were presented with a situation that created great hardship for many arts organizations throughout the State and for the Council itself: Our budget was cut 44 percent to $27.4 million.

For the Council, it meant a dramatic reduction in staff, about 25 people, particularly hard for us as it meant a loss in expertise, for which there is no compensating, and for our constituents because they lost both support and advice. It meant further reductions in staff travel around the State to make site visits and we were forced to suspend funding categories in eight of our fourteen programs. In addition, we reduced our panel and Council meetings from five to three.

We felt it was important to find out how our constituents felt the cuts would affect them, so we sent out a questionnaire that received an extraordinary 35 percent response -- and it painted a bleak picture. We learned, for example, that most organizations felt they could survive for a year or two but that disaster lies ahead if the economic picture doesn't improve. To get by, many planned to cut staff or furlough personnel as well as curtail existing projects ranging from activities in the school to reducing outreach programs to cut backs in exhibitions, titles published and concert series.

In brief, they told us, every aspect of artistic life in the State will be affected and severely restricted. The result will be obvious and very sad: An entire generation of New York children will not only be denied access to the rich experience of artistic activities but also will be growing up with little or no personal experience of the arts. And, of course, there are the intangible results that are truly heartbreaking: "One of the less measurable side effects of the cuts," one responder wrote, "is the 'worry factor' and the time and energy it saps. We had to take out loans on three separate occasions last season in order to make it through. The most recent (from my daughter's tuition fund) has yet to be repaid."

During this entire period we were gratified by the willingness — indeed eagerness — of staff and constituents to do whatever they could to face and solve our problems. Given that resolve, we are sure that the arts in this State will survive and, eventually, come back stronger than ever.

Primary Organizations

In compliance with a legislative mandate that at least 50 percent of the Council's Local Assistance funds be directed to organizations designated as "primary", the Council filed the following list of cultural organizations with the State Division of the Budget for 1991-92. A total of $ was awarded to these organizations in 1991-92. Primary institutions are defined as "eligible arts organizations which, by the quality of their arts services, their stature as arts institutions on a state or national level, or by the importance of their contributions to a significant population or the arts discipline in which they specialize, are particularly important to the cultural life of New York State, and the loss of which or the diminution of services would, in the opinion of the Council, constitute a serious artistic loss to the people in the State."

Funding by County 1991-92

The Council's appropriation act mandates that "the residents of each county receive arts services proportionate to at least 55 cents per capita of population in each county, except that Council grant standards of artistic quality and administrative competence must be met." In compliance with this mandate, in 1990-91 the Council awarded grants to organizations providing cultural services in each of the state's 62 counties in the amounts shown below. The "required" amounts are based on the 1990 U.S. census figures. The Council's response to this mandate is made through grants to organizations which apply to any and all Council programs through the normal application process. In addition, grants are awarded to organizations which provide arts services on a statewide basis. Grants for these purposes are shown at the end of the list as "statewide."
